KLAN AND LEAGUE OBJECTS OF ATTACK

Nominee Is Given 21-Minute Ovation in Hall Where Wilson Was Named Party Leader.

BY WALTER CHAMBLIN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Baltimore, Md., October 29.—(AP)—Under rafters where democratic shouts 16 years ago acclaimed the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, a new party leader, Alfred E. Smith, tonight started the last week of his drive for the presidency by declaring for a change from the "old order" in government and a settlement of many issues on the Jeffersonian-Jacksonian theory of states' rights.

The old fifth regimental army, the landmark in Baltimore history, rang with the cheers of a crowd which overflowed into the street as the 1928 democratic chief trainee a rapid fire upon the Ku Klux Klan and declared a belief in the separation of the church and state. It was estimated that more than 15,000 people were in the hall.

The audience yelled and shouted as he declared he would rather "go down to ignominious defeat," than be elected by the support of any group "with such perverted ideas of Americanism" as the Klan, and again applauded the speaker when he said that "political activity on the part of the church is the negation" of its separation from the state.

Audience Waits Two Hours.
The audience, which had packed the hall more than two hours before the democratic nominee appeared at 8:44 p. m., shouted out a 21-minute ovation to the governor. Later he several times made requests for silence so as not to lose time over a nation-wide radio hookup.

A few minutes before 8 o'clock, the gathering broke into shouts and cheers when Maryland's veteran governor, Albert C. Ritchie, walked to the front of the platform and waved his hat.

A few moments later Millard Tydings, the state's junior senator, stepped up to Ritchie's side and the din grew in volume. Former Mayor Jackson, of Baltimore, was the next to appear and there was more cheering.

Mrs. Wilson on Platform.
The outburst hardly had died down before it started up again when Howard Bruce, democratic national committeeman from Maryland, introduced Ritchie as chairman of the evening. As the Maryland executive began a speech, Mrs. David K. Este Bruce, the former Ailsa Mellon and only daughter of the secretary of the treasury, was escorted to a seat on the platform.

Governor Ritchie was interrupted by a new storm of applause which

RULING BY NAPIER TO ENABLE BOARD TO RESUME WORK

Construction and Maintenance Held Up by Department Following Decision of Supreme Court.

Another development in the tangled state highway system case came Monday when Attorney-General George M. Napier issued a ruling which holds that the state highway board should spend its available road construction and maintenance money on roads upon which actual construction is in progress instead of on roads certified into the state system but upon which no work has begun.

This ruling will enable the state board to resume work and maintenance on several important trunk highways which were stopped recently through a resolution adopted by the board.

The ruling of the attorney general was in reply to a question submitted to him in behalf of the board by Seward M. Smith, attorney for the board. Under a recent decision of the supreme court it was held that state aid roads constructed through towns of 2,500 population or more should be counted in the total state road system and the decision limited this system to 6,300 miles. This decision left the board in a position where it had exceeded the 6,300 limit by 585 miles. The board then faced the problem of eliminating certain mileage already allotted and this brought up the question of whether or not the board should continue the construction work on some of the roads which was already under way or whether the board should apply its available funds to the construction of new projects which held priority over some of the projects now under way.

Holder Returns Thursday.
Chairman John N. Holder, of the board, is in Washington, D. C., but is expected to return to Atlanta Thursday. It was learned at the highway department that a meeting of the board will be held soon after the return of the chairman and that at this meeting the recent order stopping maintenance and construction work will be rescinded, at least as far as some of the important trunk highway projects are concerned. The question asked the attorney general did not refer directly in any way to the recent decision of the supreme court in the 2,500 town case, but referred to the situation caused by that decision which eliminated the 585 miles it was stated by Attorney Smith. The attorney general was asked to rule whether or not the board should spend its available funds on roads now under construction or whether it should spend it in the roads with the priority in certification. Attorney Smith furnished the attorney general with a preamble to the request outlining the situation in the highway department, and the at-

George R. Harsh and Richard G. Gallogly Are Made Defendants in Suit of Mrs. Mary Smith

I. V. ELLIS, SHOT
IN HOLDUP, SUES

Petition of Manager of Grocery Store Asks for Damages of $50,000 for His Injury.

A pretty young woman—too young to be heart-broken, and widowed—sat in her aunt's home at Chattanooga Monday, thinking little in her sorrow of the fact that her suit for $100,000 had been filed in Atlanta against two dapper young students, one of whom has confessed to the killing of her husband that they might feel a different kind of a thrill.

It was Mrs. Mary Belle Smith, 19, bride of less than a year, whose husband's life had been snuffed out during the holdup October 16 in which George R. Harsh and Richard G. Gallogly, according to the former's confession, took part and which ended in a fusillade of shots, one of which fatally wounded Willard A. Smith, manager of a drug store.

At about the same time suit also was filed against the two youths by I. V. Ellis, manager of the A. & P. grocery store, who was wounded at the same time E. H. Meek, clerk, was fatally wounded. This suit asks damages of $50,000.

"This is just too much for me to bear," young Mrs. Smith sobbed during an interview. "It seems that I've always been the victim of bad luck—perhaps because I was born on the thirteenth day of the month."

Mother and Father Dead.
It was a reference to a life of loneliness. A few weeks after her birth her mother had died, and when she was scarcely toddling—a baby of two years—her father had also passed

HOTEL MAN SLAIN; KILLER CONFESSES

Victim Fired First Shot, Says Nashville Grain Merchant, Arrested on Murder Charge.

Nashville, Tenn., October 29.—(AP)—Walter L. Liggett, prominent Nashville grain merchant, was under arrest tonight charged with the murder of Turney Cunningham, manager of the Andrew Jackson hotel, following a shooting affray in an alley in the rear of the Cunningham home.

Cunningham, who received four pistol wounds, died while being taken to a hospital. Questioned by police, Liggett steadfastly declined to reveal the motive for the shooting, although he told police Cunningham fired the first shot.

Police answering a call by neighbors were told five or six shots were fired. Liggett was arrested near the scene of the shooting.

Liggett, who was a member of C. L. Liggett & Son, grain dealers, was well known in Nashville. He is a member of the Nashville Boosters' club.

Mr. Cunningham was born in Lebanon and was 40 years old. He left for Texas when a boy and received his education there. He first went with the Southland, a Dallas hotel, and from there to St. Louis, where he managed a hotel.

Returning to Dallas, Mr. Cunningham came to Nashville and was placed in charge of the Hermitage hotel shortly after its construction. He remained with that hotel for 11 years, becoming manager of the Andrew Jackson three years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rex Ashworth Cunningham, a native of Wilson county, and one daughter, Orela. He was a member of the Baptist church.

Pretty Widow of Willard Smith Sues Harsh and Gallogly

Willard Smith, shot down in a drug store as he tried to defend his employer's money from George R. Harsh, "thrill slayer," and whose bullet fired into Harsh's groin led to the arrest and subsequent confession. Smith is shown standing in front of the pharmacy at 908 Boulevard, N. E., a few days before he was killed. On the right is Smith and his 19-year-old bride of less than a year, who Monday filed suit against Harsh and Gallogly for $100,000 damages claimed for the slaying of her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Smith had moved into a new apartment six weeks before the fatal holdup. She now is in Chattanooga with relatives.

COUNTY MEN DENY USE OF 'BIG STICK'

Workers in Local Governments Not Coerced To Vote for Smith, Leaders Say at Big Rally.

Denying that an attempt was made to use "the big stick" to compel employees of the city of Atlanta and Fulton county to vote for Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee, half a score of speakers Monday afternoon branded any such report as false and declared city and county employees would vote "as their consciences dictate, just as they always have." The meeting was held at the courthouse and was attended by employees of the local governments.

Confidence, however, was expressed in the good judgment of these employees, nearly 1,000 of whom gathered at the call of members of the Fulton County Democratic League to hear speakers tell of the campaign issues and a plea that they all go to the polls.

"There never was a bigger campaign fraud than the report that higher-ups in the county and city were attempting to force employees to vote for Mr. Smith," Walter B. Stewart, vice chairman of the county democratic organization and chairman of the Fulton county commission said. "I believe that the county employees are self-respecting citizens, they are good citizens, and they would not stand any dictation."

Deserves Big Majority.
"I may add, however, that I feel the democratic standard bearer will get the vast majority of the votes because he deserves them from the loyal democrats who are in the employ of the city and county."

Councilman Wiley L. Moore, who represented the city and who also is a vice chairman of the county organization, reiterated the statement which Mr. Stewart made and which also was supported by Edwin F. Johnson, tax receiver-elect, Mayor John S. Cohen, editor of The Journal, James A. Holoman, associate editor of The Constitution, Charles B. Shelton, chairman of the Fulton county democratic organization, and others.

After voicing a vigorous and unqualified denial of any attempt at coercion, Mr. Shelton predicted the election of Governor Smith as the next president of the United States.

STORMS BUFFET GIANT ZEPPELIN

Air Monster Is Over North Atlantic on Return Voyage; American Boy Is Stowaway.

New York, October 29.—(United News).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, stout veteran of the Atlantic air lanes, guided the dirigible Graf Zeppelin homeward tonight over the North Atlantic ocean through a sky made hazardous by wind and driving rain. A shadow in a darkened heaven, the first commercial trans-Atlantic aircraft, threaded an uncertain course toward Friedrichshafen, Germany, slipping through the vicinity of the treacherous banks of Newfoundland some 20 hours after the departure from the Lakehurst naval air station at 1:54 a. m. The Graf Zeppelin carried 25 passengers, 38 members of the crew and a single adventurous American boy stowaway at a speed well above its normal cruising rate of 68 miles per hour through the first part of the return trip.

In Storm's Path.
Shifting winds and storm areas apparently were forcing Dr. Eckener to jockey the dirigible in an effort to find the most favorable conditions. Late reports by radio revealed. Despatches this afternoon from the dirigible and from the S. S. American Trader placed the Graf Zeppelin more than 500 miles out from Boston and nearly 300 miles southeast of Cape Sable, N. S. Shortly after dusk the dirigible was in communication with a radio station at Canso, N. S., but failed to make clear its position. At that time the storm was raging in the craft's path.

Striking east from the coast of Massachusetts, the dirigible apparently followed a due east course for the next few hours, being reported by the American Trader at 7:15 a. m. and by the S. S. American Trader at noon. The wind had increased slightly in velocity, blowing at about half-gale force, and the American Trader reported rain and squalls along the route.

70-Hour Trip.
The weather bureau reports indicated that Dr. Eckener would be forced to employ his greatest skill in escaping adverse weather, such as forecast the direful far south, in what would have been a normal course across the Atlantic on its trip two weeks ago.

There were scattered patches of rain and storm spread out between the position last reported and the

Reward Ready For Captor Of Two Boys

Chief Lamar Poole Says Detective Lowe Is Entitled to Full Credit.

Reward of $1,000 for apprehension of the bandits who shot and killed E. H. Meeks, clerk in the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 1004 Hemphill avenue, and seriously wounded I. V. Ellis, manager of the store, on the night of October 6, will be paid immediately upon notification from the proper authorities as to who is entitled to credit for the arrest of George Rutherford Harsh and Richard Gray Gallogly, charged with the murder.

B. F. Vinson, vice president of the A&P company, Monday night said that everything necessary to claim the reward had been accomplished. He expressed himself as more than gratified that the men believed to have killed Meeks and wounded Ellis were to be brought before the bar of justice.

John Lowe's name Monday night stood before all others as the man entitled to the full measure of credit for the arrest of the two collegians. Mr. Vinson was outspoken in his praise of Detective Lowe. Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole stated that Mr. Lowe was entitled to full credit for the capture and that he would recommend him for the reward to the police committee of council which will make the decision.

J. C. Murphy, chairman of the police committee of council, said that his committee would meet Wednesday night and that the facts in the case would be studied for the purpose of making recommendation.

Salesman Provides Clue.
The assiduous efforts of a youthful and highly loquacious Atlanta salesman to provide interesting conversation for a stowaway customer was the insignificant incident that led to the capture of George Harsh and Richard "Dick" Gallogly, it was revealed Monday by Detective Lowe.

Relating chronologically events leading to the students' apprehension, Detective Lowe said:

"It seems that the young salesman, DuPont Murphy, employed by a local packing house, has a sister, Inez, who is private secretary to J. B. Wright, employee of a large finance corporation here. Recently at dinner one evening Miss Murphy related to her family a story told her by Wright of his (Wright) having received a student friend in his apartment early one

MRS. O'DAY PAYS TRIBUTE TO SMITH

Former Georgian Tells Atlanta Audience of Great Work of Governor in Interest of Humanity.

Governor Al Smith, through years of experience and training, is fitted in every way to make a great president of the United States and Mrs. Al Smith will make a charming and gracious mistress of the white house, according to Mrs. Daniel O'Day, of New York, vice chairman of the state democratic executive committee of that state and close personal friend of the Smith family, in an address delivered before a large and representative crowd of Atlanta people at the Woman's club auditorium Monday night.

Mrs. O'Day, a Georgia woman, reared in Savannah, explained that it was her mission to refute, as a Georgia-born woman to Georgians, pro-miscuous rumors that Smith is "only a politician" and that Mrs. Smith would not be fitted to serve "as the first lady of the land."

The Smith Family.
"The Smith family is a lovely, sweet and delightful family and Mrs. Smith is a charming, well educated woman of talent and during all the eight years she has served as the first lady of New York not one word of criticism has been uttered against her by either republicans or democrats," Mrs. O'Day said. "It is only since the race for president that there have been reports circulated to the effect that Mrs. Smith would not make the right kind of a hostess in the white house, but I can assure you as a southern woman, that she will make an ideal mistress of the white house from every point of view."

Mrs. O'Day's speech at the Woman's club culminated a busy day for

GALLOGLY'S PART IN CRIMES PROVED, SAYS CHIEF POOLE

Oral Statement Made by Atlanta Youth Shortly Before Grand Jury Acts, Detective States.

DEFENSE WILL ASK FOR DARROW'S AID

William Mahoney, F. Morgan Sutton and J. D. Wright To Be "Star" Witnesses for State.

A partial oral confession from Richard Gray Gallogly, held with George Rutherford Harsh, confessed Oglethorpe university "thrill slayer," was revealed late Monday by Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole as the Fulton county grand jury returned two first-degree murder indictments against the two youths.

Gallogly has told the police enough to warrant removal of all doubt as to his participation in the series of robberies and the two murders which Harsh admits and says Gallogly was an accomplice to, Chief Poole declared.

Two indictments each jointly charging the youths were returned late Monday afternoon by the Fulton grand jury hurriedly summoned into special session by Assistant Solicitor Ed Stephens. The indictments charge Harsh and Gallogly jointly guilty of the murder of E. H. Meeks in the robbery of the A. & P. grocery at 1004 Hemphill avenue on the night of October 6 and the murder of Willard Smith in the robbery of the drug store he managed at 908 Boulevard, N. E., on the night of October 16. A long list of witnesses headed by Detective John Lowe and including a number of persons who saw the two robberies appeared before the grand jury before the indictments were returned.

The presentations were made to Superior Court Judge John D. Humphries, who went to the courtroom from his home shortly after 6 o'clock Monday night when informed that the indictments were to be returned. The action of the grand jury forces cancellation of a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus seeking the release of Gallogly which was filed earlier in the day and set for a hearing Friday before Judge Humphries.

State's "Star" Witnesses.
These facts, together with the revelation that William Mahoney, son of J. A. Mahoney, one of Atlanta's best-known merchant tailors, and F. Morgan Sutton, a medical student and son of Dr. Frederick M. Sutton, together with J. D. Wright, employee of a finance corporation here, would be the state's "star" witnesses against Gallogly and Harsh, and advice from close friends of the Harsh family that Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago lawyer would be asked to lead the counsel for his defense, came in a day of considerable activity.

HINDUS SPEAK TODAY BEFORE KIWANIS CLUB

Famous Russian-American Author Will Talk of Asia.

Members of the Kiwanis club will be given an opportunity to learn of "That International Enigma, Asia," when Maurice G. Hindus, famous Russian-American orator and author, speaks on "Asia Afloat" at the weekly luncheon of the club at 12:30 o'clock in the Ansley hotel.

The author of "Broken Earth" and "The Russian Peasant and the Revolution," powerful works on the Russian people, is probably as well acquainted with actual conditions in Russia and in northern Asia as any other English-speaking writer. He has recently completed a prolonged tour of Russia, Mongolia and China in the employ of three national magazines and now is embarking on an extensive speaking tour of the south for the Alkhesta bureau. He was obtained for the Kiwanis meeting by Russell Bridges, chairman of the program.

Hindus is a native born Russian, who emigrated to this country at the age of 15 and worked for some years as a farmhand in New England. He then went to Colgate university and after graduating from that institution took up his career of journalism and writing.

A profound student of the Russian peasant, Mr. Hindus in his speeches vividly shows the position of this great body of laborers in the domestic scheme of Russia. He says, "Out of a population of 140,000,000, 120,000,000 are peasants. Eventually, I believe, peasants will rule Russia." And again speaking of this great mass of "monks," he states: "The peasants are ignorant, but remember that ignorance does not mean stupidity any more than a college degree means intelligence."

Mr. Hindus has studied the effects of the bolshevik regime from many standpoints and gives some interesting facts upon the operation of the soviet government. Relating the reaction of the peasants to the revolution, he says: "The peasants always have loved land. The bolsheviks told them they would give them land. If the devil himself had promised them that, they would have followed him."

Of war, in particular the recent world war, he says: "If Europe had another war it will become the yard, and a smelly backyard, of Asia."

Damaged by Fire

Another Blast Hits Alcohol Plant

Philadelphia, October 29.—(AP)—A fresh explosion shook the plant of the Philadelphia Commercial Alcohol company today injuring three firemen who were watching for the outbreak on the fire which yesterday wrecked the plant and resulted in the death of two men.

A circular top of a huge still, a sheet of half-inch steel 25 feet in diameter, was thrown several hundred feet in the air and landed more than 200 feet away missing three policemen by a scant three feet.

More than $1,000,000 damage was caused by yesterday's fire. A series of explosions released three quarters of a million gallons of alcohol which became a roaring mass of liquid flame.

Francis J. Sears, federal prohibition agent stationed at the government supervised plant, and Hugh Duffy, mechanic, were burned to death when a shower of flaming alcohol enveloped them as they were trapped in a cistern room.

Police Seek Thief Who Got Jewels Of Opera Singer

New York, October 29.—(AP)—Police today were seeking a thief who entered the apartment of Mme. Marie Rappold, operatic soprano, apparently drugged her and her daughter as they lay asleep, and escaped with jewels valued at $75,000. A pearl necklace worth $25,000 was overlooked.

The robbery was discovered by the daughter, who awoke about 11 o'clock yesterday morning with a burning sensation in her throat and her mouth unusually dry. She thought it was bad air in the apartment and went to raise the windows when she discovered the theft. Mme. Rappold complained of the same symptoms as her daughter and said she believed the intruder had sprayed her and her daughter with a soporific drug before ransacking the jewel case.

They had been out late the night before and had returned to their hotel apart-eat tired out and quickly went to sleep. The thief is believed to have entered the room with a passkey.

Mme. Rappold, who made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera company in 1907 and who recently returned from a European concert tour, came home from a dinner party late Saturday night wearing some of the jewelry that was stolen. Police believed the thief had trailed her to her apartment.

100 ARE INDICTED IN ALLEGED N. Y. VOTING FRAUDS

New York, October 29.—(AP)—More than 100 persons involved in instances of alleged illegal registrations in New York city were indicted today.

The special grand jury called to consider evidence gathered by George Z. Medale, a special deputy attorney general, disposed of ten complaints, each involving more than one person. The indictments were being prepared this afternoon by members of Medale's staff.

POSTPONE TRIAL FOR MALFEASANCE OF DR. ANDERSON

Raleigh, N. C., October 29.—(AP)—Trial of Dr. Albert Anderson, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane here, on charges of embezzlement and malfeasance in office was postponed until November 12, when called in Wake superior court today.

With defense and prosecution asked for more time in which to complete preparation of their case, Solicitor Brasfield said Governor McLean had agreed to call another special term of court to hear the case and Judge Devin set November 12.

Three nuns were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a convent at Gattineau Point, Que., today. Another was injured.

The dead are: Sister Superior Ste. Cyrille, 64, formerly Miss Adeline Demers, of St. Nicholas, Que.

Sister Annette, 34, formerly Miss Annette Gervais, of Montebello, Que., and Sister Margaret Marie, 20, formerly Miss Juliet Huneault, of Hull, Que.

Sister Rose de la Croix, whose arm was broken, was taken to a hospital. An overheated furnace is believed to have caused the fire.

Fire Chief Charbon said the three nuns who lost their lives stood at the top of a fire escape screaming for help when he arrived. They were in night attire and attempted to re-enter the burning building, presumably to get their clothing. Eight sisters were in the convent. Four escaped uninjured. The convent was erected more than 50 years ago.

BOISTEROUS GUEST KILLS HOTEL MAN WHEN PUT OUT

Corbin, Ky., October 29.—(AP)—Thank Jones, well-known hotel operator and former oil man, was shot to death in the lobby of the Central hotel early today. Shelby Sample, whom the proprietor had ejected only a few minutes before the shooting because guests of the hotel complained he was disturbing their rest, was arrested later on a charge of murder.

Witnesses said Sample entered the hotel lobby about 3 o'clock and, apparently under the influence of liquor, became boisterous. Mr. Jones called from his apartment and asked Sample to leave. After leaving the hotel, however, Sample was said to have fired a single shot through a plate glass window. The bullet struck Jones in the chest.

THREAT OF FIGHT BRINGS PLEA FOR POLICE AT POLLS

Cincinnati, Ohio, October 29.—(AP)—Special police protection was requested at one voting booth here election day by the board of elections today when Matthew Normie, democrat, and William R. Spooner, republican, election clerks, made known that Spooner had been threatened with dismissal and that another man was to take his place with the intent of attacking Normie.

The election board immediately ruled that the man be refused a certificate to work in the booths if he should apply for employment.

Normie and Spooner also told officials today that they had been ordered by a precinct executive to register two men who did not live in the precinct. The clerks said they feared for their lives and permitted the men to register but that they scratched the names off the roll the following day.

SUPREME COURT DENIES APPEAL OF TWO DOCTORS

Washington, October 29.—(AP)—The supreme court refused today to entertain the appeals of Drs. Talbert W. and Nathan A. Hughes, of Atlanta, Ga., seeking to set aside the decision of the Georgia courts sustaining the state board of medical examiners in cancelling their license to practice medicine. The supreme court announced that the appeals were dismissed for want of a substantial federal question.

The licenses were cancelled by the board after hearings on the grounds that the two physicians had been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, in that they had been found guilty of using the mails to defraud, and had circulated obscene advertisements. The doctors contended that the state law under which the board had acted was unconstitutional because they had not received proper notice and hearing, and challenged other features of it. They also insisted that their licenses could not be cancelled because of their conviction of violating the postal laws because they had been pardoned by the president.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1876), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own, containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1902 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but you may try it free by using this coupon.

WOMEN OF DEKALB HOLD ROUSING RALLY

Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Temple and
Mrs. Dennis Urge Loyalty.

Decatur, Ga., October 20.—(Special.)—The women of DeKalb county not to be misled by the false propaganda of the republican party in Georgia, and pleading for them to support the national democratic ticket on November 6, three prominent Georgia women Monday night explained the efforts which they are being made to undermine the candidacy of Governor Alfred B. Smith in Georgia at the present time. The addresses were delivered during a huge rally of DeKalb county women, held at the courthouse. The speakers included Mrs. Betty R. Cobb, of Carrollton; Mrs. Mark Temple, of Marietta; and Mrs. Frank A. Dennis, of Marietta. Mrs. Dennis was a delegate to the recent democratic national convention at Houston. The rally was held under the auspices of the women's division, DeKalb County democratic league, and several hundred men and women were in the audience. Applause was liberal and the audience was one of the most enthusiastic ever observed, political observers reported.

Declaring that his magnetic personality, coupled with the fact that he always keeps his word on every promise made to the people, are two good reasons why Smith should be the choice of every voter in Georgia, Mrs.

Temple made an ardent plea to the women of this county and the entire state to disregard "false rumors" and to lend their whole-hearted support to the democratic nominee.

Groundless Fear.

"The women of the south are being driven by fear," Mrs. Temple declared, "when they leave the party of their fathers now." This fear, she explained, was being predicated on propaganda being disseminated throughout the state by the opposition in the guise of attacks against Tammany Hall and the democratic party.

Mrs. Cobb made an earnest plea to the voters not to let the religious issue of the present campaign bias their loyalty to the democratic party and change the natural course of their inclinations November 6. She scored "some of the Christian magazines which are trying to influence voters through their publications" and asked her hearers to ignore these unfair tactics.

In her speech, Mrs. Dennis asserted that the recent landslide for Governor Smith at Houston "is sufficient testimony as to his ability and popularity" and urged the voters to bear that fact in mind when "the tricks of the opposition are used to undermine the Smith candidacy." She added that the women of Georgia "have been confronted with so serious a problem before" and pointed out that "if the party bolters were sincere in their opposition to Governor Smith on his liquor stand they would not be voting for Hoover, but would be voting for the prohibition candidate." She declared that as a southern woman and as a white citizen she "could not vote any other than the democratic ticket."

I. V. Ellis, Wounded by Bandit, A. & P. MANAGER AND MEEKS WERE NEIGHBORS Glad Friend's Slayer Is Found

E. H. MEEKS.

"Glad they got 'em," I. V. Ellis, manager of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea store, at 1004 Hemphill avenue, whose left arm was shattered above the elbow by a .45-caliber bullet from the gun of a bandit, glanced at his helpless arm, all wrapped up in a plaster cast, as he sat on the porch of his humble home at Powder Springs Monday afternoon and breathed a sigh of relief.

"You don't know just how glad I am," he answered. "They've got the right fellow in this boy George Harsh. About the other bandit, I don't know. For I didn't see that night, but I'm positive that Harsh is the fellow who shot poor Meeks and myself. I hope they get what's coming to them, but they say there's plenty of money behind them."

Meeks lived nearby. Meeks also lived in the Powder Springs neighborhood, and it was the custom of the two A&P employees to go to and from work together. It was on the fateful night of October 19, 1936, at about 10 o'clock at night, when the two were checking the two employees and friends was interrupted by a prowling customer.

Ellis said that he was stooping down under the counter when Harsh entered the door. Just how the shoot-ty at the close of which Chief Poole announced that the state's case now was practically complete.

Chief Poole was reticent to discuss the admissions of Gallogly, saying he did not wish to jeopardize the state's chances for conviction. The "verbal confession" was obtained early Sunday morning in the office of the Fulton solicitor general, Chief Poole said, and was held back in order that the counsel for the boy might not block movements to use it against him.

"I am not going to say just what Gallogly told us," Chief Poole said, "but it is enough to fully incriminate him and both he and his counsel know it."

The detective head said he sought for more than two hours to get Young Gallogly to make a written statement, but the boy refused, having been told by his lawyers not to make a statement. It was in his refusal to make a written statement that Gallogly did give the police enough to know that a written confession could be had if it were not for the order of counsel, Chief Poole said.

Have Enough Facts.

"We had the boy on the verge of telling everything several times but on each occasion he suddenly remembered that he has been ordered by his counsel not to talk," Poole said. "Then he went back to his refusing again, but all in all we have enough bona fide statements from him to get a conviction before any jury in the land."

Gallogly was questioned early Sunday morning by Chief Poole, Assistant Solicitor-General Ed Stephens and Detective John Lowe, who had been handling the case for the police department.

When the grilling ended and the boy was taken to police headquarters to meet his mother, Mrs. Worth E. Yankey, and to be placed in a solitary cell near his alleged companion, Harsh, it was announced that nothing was obtained from him.

phase of the defense was forthcoming from any member of the Harsh defense counsel, which is now composed of Branch & Howard and Colquitt & Conners.

Lawyers Make No Statements.

None of the lawyers employed by families of the accused boys would make any statement Monday concerning the case.

"We will have nothing to say regarding this case until the excitement has ended and we have more to study of all the facts," Reuben R. Arnold, of Reuben & Lowry Arnold, counsel for Gallogly, said. "We must go into this thing thoroughly and we have not even started to question our client. We will have a long time to do that and there is no real need for a rush now."

Branch and William Schley Howard, of counsel for Harsh, likewise refused to make any statement concerning the case.

"This is a case where statements won't mean anything at all," Mr. Branch said. "We have none to make and I cannot say when, if ever, we will have one."

SMITH'S WIDOW SUES FOR $100,000

away, leaving her in the care of a kindly aunt, at whose home she sat Monday facing a future void of color.

A real promise of happiness was when she met Willard Smith, an attractive youth. They were married on December 19, 1927, and their joint lives began on a modest scale, with every promise of a comfortable and blissful future.

The night of October 16 was the beginning of the end; and four days later Willard died. She was alone.

"All I want is justice," she said through her tears, when informed that the legal action had been taken against the youthful slayers of her husband. "May the outcome of their thrills be a warning to other thrill-seekers. I was by my husband's bedside for the four days he lingered before his death," she cried, suddenly recalling the tragedy. "He lost consciousness for two days before he died."

Moved Into New Apartment.

The alleged "thrill" that was the object of Harsh and Gallogly in their tumultuous career of banditry struck a note of pathetic tragedy in the death of young Smith. The young couple had just moved into a cozy little apartment at 330 Forrest avenue. A devoted couple, both were striving to make ends meet. While her husband worked at the Eighth Street pharmacy the little wife continued her employment at the Metropolitan theater. She made only $13 a week, but it was needed at home and it helped. There was no dream of tragedy; no straw in the wind to indicate that two handsome college men with luxurious homes, whose annual incomes would have exceeded perhaps the wildest dream of the adoring couple, were restless for "thrills" and that their thrill would be the sharp bark of an automatic—and death.

Wife Was Dependent.

Suit in behalf of Mrs. Smith was filed by Fred E. Harrison, prominent Atlanta attorney. It petitions the court that George R. Harsh and Richard G. Gallogly are 19 years of age—the same as the young widow. It describes the fatal wounding of Smith at the Eighth Street pharmacy on the night of October 16, and further:

"That plaintiff's said husband at the time of his death, which was caused by the bullets fired by the defendant, George R. Harsh, while engaged in the aforesaid criminal enterprise with the defendant, Richard Gallogly, was 24 years of age and earning the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars per month, and plaintiff was dependent upon her said husband for support and maintenance, and that her said husband had an expectancy of life of 35 to 100 years, and that all of the acts of said defendants in killing her said husband were malicious and without cause."

Alleged "Thrill" Slayers HARSH PAWNED WATCH TO VISIT CLUB Often Hard Up for Funds

Sons of wealth do not always have ready cash. And so, it seems, was the case of "Dick" Gallogly "Junie" Harsh.

Harsh and Gallogly frequently placed which kept late hours. They stopped at barbecue stands of the better class. They took in the sights of the only night club Atlanta boasts—a few were well known at these places.

There were times when they were plentifully supplied with funds. In fact one filling station and automobile tire and accessories dealer says that Gallogly had a charge account which he often paid at a $100 a week. Then again—a barbecue stand employee Monday was holding a gold Swiss jeweled watch and chain, the watch bearing the initials G. R. H., for George Rutherford Harsh, upon which this employee had loaned "Junie" $5, he says.

Harsh about two weeks ago had pawned it with him, saying he was going to the night club and needed the money.

This same man says that Harsh and Gallogly were regular patrons of the barbecue stand, that they were often under the influence of liquor when they ordered their sandwiches and cold drinks. At times they were alone, and sometimes girls were their companions.

And he says that these boys, raised on wealth in the highest circles of society, at times had to charge their sandwiches because they did not have the small change in their pockets to pay these little bills.

The automobile man has lost "one of my best customers." The barbecue stand will not serve "Dick" and "Junie" soon, if ever. And the night club patrons will not number them among the guests at tables and on the dance floor.

They will be missed for they were "lively spenders," even if they had to pawn a watch, charge a bill of sundries—or rob a grocery or drug store.

"These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."—(adv.)

AUGUSTA IS SEEKING PLACE ON AIR MAIL

Georgia City Makes Bid for Position Now Held by Atlanta.

Augusta entered the field as the competitor of Atlanta for her place on the New York-Miami air mail line Monday when leaders from that city began a move to carry the air mail traffic through that Georgia city, thus diverting it from Atlanta, which is declared by the postoffice department to be the logical and geographical distribution center for the entire southeast.

On the heels of the bid of Augusta and four other southern cities through the newly formed South Atlantic Airports' association, Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward; Councilman William E. Saunders, of the twelfth, and other members of general council joined Mayor T. N. Ragdale and members of the Fulton county commission in urging acquisition and development of Candler field to its maximum usefulness next year.

It also was learned that the Daniel landing field at Augusta has been purchased by the city and that only $4 was spent on grading. It has already cost many thousands of dollars in labor to grade Candler field. The Daniel field cost $110,000 and is about the same size as Candler field. The city and county are to be asked to spend $100,000 in the purchase of the local airport.

In addition to Augusta, Greensboro, Charlotte, Columbia and Savannah are members of the association, which is seeking to divert air traffic to the east of Atlanta. Raleigh H. Daniel, for whom the Augusta air terminal is named, is a former mayor of that city, and is president of the association.

"With Augusta seeking to divert the east traffic and Birmingham the west, it would seem that Atlanta and Fulton county should do something at once to assure the proper development of Candler field," Councilman Saunders and Alderman Gann declared.

"Atlanta must maintain her leadership in aviation, cities and she must certainly retain her position on the important air transport systems. This is a matter in which Atlanta and the contiguous territory is intensely interested, as the Atlanta airport serves not only the city and Fulton county, but the cosmopolitan area included in Fulton, DeKalb and other neighboring counties. It brings the money markets of the midwest and east to within eight hours of Atlanta and this section of the United States."

Mr. Morris declared he would meet any fifth ward citizen who wished to support the candidacy of Herbert Hoover in public debate.

"I want to do my bit in this campaign for the democratic party," Mr. Morris said, "and issue this challenge with a desire that it be accepted. The only conditions are that some persons from the fifth ward defend Hoover and the republican party's record of corruption, pilage and plunder. Please see that the offer gets to the republican headquarters. I won't be pleased if they would select my opponent."

NATIONAL SURETY CO. WILL COMPLETE SCHOOL PROJECTS

A contract with the National Surety company, transferring to that firm all the property and interests of the Joe W. Stout and company, was signed Monday by Mayor T. N. Ragdale and work on five school buildings started by Stout and company and abandoned several weeks ago will begin at once, it was stated by officials of the Surety company.

Such action was authorized by city council at a special session last week and had previously been approved by the directors of the Stout company. Officials of the Surety company made bond for the completion of the buildings, stated Monday that they have engineers on the ground and will rush the structures to completion. Schools included in the group are Morningstar, Haygood, State, Woodward Avenue, Whiteford Avenue and Grant Park additions.

FREAK ACCIDENT CAUSES DEATH OF DUBLIN MAN

Dublin, Ga., October 29.—(Special.) Efforts to locate Sam Peacock, negro driver of the car that caused the death of a young white man near here Saturday night, have been unavailing so far as could be learned Monday.

Fate played a grim trick on Jim Howard, the youth who was fatally injured in the automobile accident. Howard, with three other companions, was walking home late at night, when an automobile was heard coming at high speed down the road, several miles from Dublin. The four companions leaped into the ditch beside the road for safety, fearing the driver of the automobile in his haste might fail to see them.

Just before the car had reached the spot where the safety seekers had taken refuge, the right front wheel severed itself from the machine and, rolling at a rapid speed, entered the ditch, striking Howard in the back. The force of the blow knocked him to the ground, while the hub of the wheel, which still possessed a large part of its momentum, struck the young man on the back of the head, killing him instantly.

Minus a wheel the car ploughed up the road for several hundred feet before coming to a halt. The negro driver leaped from the car and disappeared.

Mrs. Hoover Thanks
Republican Women
For Campaign Work

Washington, October 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover made an informal visit to republican headquarters today to thank the women who have worked there in the interests of her husband's candidacy for president.

"It is not a formal visit," she said to the members of the hostess committee who happened to be on hand to greet her. "I happened to see a friend who urged me to come up and I was so glad of the opportunity because I wanted to thank you all and I had never been to the offices before."

Mrs. Alvin T. Hart, national vice chairman, has returned to Kentucky for the election, but Mrs. Hoover was welcomed by Mrs. Sydney A. Colman, chairman of the hostess committee, and several cabinet wives who have served at headquarters during the campaign.

An informal reception developed for the candidate's wife as Mrs. Davis, wife of the secretary of labor; Mrs. MacCracken, wife of the assistant secretary of commerce for aviation, and Mrs. Bartlett, wife of the assistant postmaster general, were joined by other workers.

GEORGIAN MAY DIE; STRUCK BY TRUCK

Moses M. Coleman, Prominent Lyons Citizen, Lingers Near Death.

Lyons, Ga., October 29.—(Special.) Moses M. Coleman, 76, one of the most prominent citizens of Lyons, was run over by a lumber truck Monday afternoon, his left leg broken twice and the flesh torn open. He was rushed to Dr. Aiken's office and given treatment, then taken to Vidalia hospital, where little hope for his recovery is expected.

For years he was one of the biggest business men here, but has been retired due to failing health for about 10 years. It was reported here once that he was dead, but there is still hope that he will rally sufficiently to stand the operation that will be necessary. Mr. Coleman had just stepped into the Jeff Davis road and was signaling another truck to stop when the truck owned by Darby Lumber company, of Vidalia, struck him. The driver helped carry him to the doctor's office.

Justice Hines Declares Dark Crisis Confronts Southern People Nov. 6

Jurist Takes Stump for Smith in Eloquent Address Before Jenkins
Voters.

Millen, Ga., October 29.—(Special.)—The people of the south are confronted with "the greatest crisis since the dark days of reconstruction," Judge James K. Hines, of the Georgia supreme court, declared in an address here tonight before a large audience of Jenkins county voters.

Judge Hines, who was a lifelong friend of Thomas E. Watson, declared that he had taken the oath to support the constitution of the United States and Georgia 15 times since his admission to the bar, and that he felt it his duty to "come out in support and defense of these great instruments which are being violated and trampled upon."

"The truth is," the jurist declared, "that the republican party is inviting the people of this country to bow down and worship a golden calf, which they contend they have erected, when in fact the calf is made of brass, and the invitation to worship is as brazen as the stuff of which that calf is made. I sincerely hope that the people of Georgia will not be found on November 6 worshipping that calf. I sincerely hope that they will not become worshippers of Mammon, but that they will be found standing by the great principles of the constitution for which the democratic party has always stood and now stands."

Hines on Prohibition.

Judge Hines devoted a considerable proportion of his address to the prohibition issue as confronting the voters in the present campaign. He outlined the history of prohibition and declared that Governor Smith, if elected, would support and enforce the eighteenth amendment to the constitution. He stated that the republican platform did not differ in the slightest from that of the democratic party on the question and graphically described the laxity which he said has marked the enforcement of the Volstead act during the republican administration under which it has been in effect.

In answer to the rhetorical question: "Can prohibitionists consistently support Governor Smith for the presidency?" the speaker reviewed his own record as a prohibitionist, stating that he first advocated such a restriction in 1875 and has since been an ardent prohibitionist.

"For 53 years," he asserted, "I have been an open and active prohibitionist, and have practiced what I preached. I am still a prohibitionist. I believe that prohibition has been an economic and moral blessing to the people of this state. With these views upon prohibition I support and shall vote for the democratic nominees for president and vice president of the United States with respect and without any qualms of conscience."

Religious Liberty Discussed.

Judge Hines then explained in detail why he has sided to support, as a prohibitionist, the democratic nominees. Georgia, he said, in brief, has the most stringent prohibition laws of any state in the union. These local statutes, he pointed out, cannot be altered, changed or repealed by "either the president of the United States or the congress of the United States. Also, he declared, the election of Smith and Robinson could not effect any change, or become a violation of the constitution of the United States.

At the end of his lengthy talk on the prohibition issue, Judge Hines declared:

"I come now to discuss religious liberty. This was the chief and moving motive which induced me to accept the invitation to address you tonight. I regard the right to worship God according to the dictates of one's conscience as the most sacred and the most inestimable right which a human being possesses. I believe the maintenance of this right is now in peril in the state of Georgia. I am here to maintain it. I am here to support it. I am here to defend it."

The most comprehensive provisions on the subject of religious freedom are found in the constitution of Georgia. Paragraph 12 of article 1 of that instrument is as follows: "All men have the natural and inalienable right to worship God, each according to the dictates of his own conscience, and no human authority should in any case control or interfere with such right of conscience." This provision of our state constitution further declared that "No human authority should in any case control or interfere with such right of conscience." Such control or interference is not only prohibited to the legislature or to the executive or to the judiciary, but on the contrary, is denied to every human, whether individual, the church or the state.

"Any person in this state who votes against a candidate for office because he is a Baptist, or because he is a Presbyterian, or because he is an Episcopalian, or because he is a Quaker, or because he is a Catholic, violates this provision of the constitution of Georgia, and is an unworthy citizen of this great state."

EMORY BURGLARS RANSACK ROOMS FOR LOOT OF $75

Collegiate burglars chose the time when a class football game was in progress Monday evening at Emory university to perpetrate several robberies. Charlie Bramlett, Bird Daniels and John Bell, residents of the Winthrop Hall, returned from participation in the game to find cash and belongings missing to the extent of $75. The rooms burglarized were situated on the second floor of the hall. According to the victims, the rooms were not locked. When they returned they found their quarters ransacked and clothing scattered in confusion.

After a preliminary check up, Bramlett and Daniels listed their stolen items as a fountain pen valued at $10, a watch valued at $25, and $23 in cash. John Bell, occupant in the room next door, listed his stolen goods as a $10 fountain pen and some clothing. This is the first robbery reported this fall at Emory.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Alfred Smith Guests at Luncheon

Baltimore, Md., October 29.—(AP.)—With Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the late democratic president, Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the 1928 candidate, was guest of honor at a luncheon given here today by democratic women of Maryland.

The wives of the two standard bearers of democracy rose from their places of honor to be photographed together, the hundreds of women at the luncheon cheered and applauded.

Mrs. Smith wore a brown flat crepe frock with a small hat to match, while Mrs. Wilson wore black satin and a tri-colored black hat trimmed with small green feathers.

The head table was banked with flowers, gifts to the first lady of New York, Mrs. Smith, and her daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, were ushered to their places after having been escorted directly to the Knights of Columbus building from their train.

Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, national committee woman from Maryland, headed the delegation of Baltimore women who met Mrs. Smith and her daughter at the station when they arrived from the Claymont, Del. home of John J. Raskob.

The women members of the governor's party planned to go directly from the luncheon to the station to meet Governor Smith and join him in the hour's parade late in the afternoon.

GOVERNMENT IS REAL ISSUE, GEORGE STATES

Religion, Immigration and Prohibition False, Solon
Declares.

Ashburn, Ga., October 29.—(AP.)—United States Senator Walter F. George declared in an address here today that the "real issue in the presidential campaign is whether government is to remain on the auction block," and that prohibition, immigration and religion are false ones raised to stir up prejudice.

"Prohibition is not in danger," he said, "and besides, Hoover is no more committed to the enforcement of the prohibition law than is Governor Smith."

"Immigration is not a real issue, because the positions of both Hoover and Smith are almost identical, with the exception that Hoover has for years been on a commission to work out the quota provisions of the national origins plan in the present law and he has failed to do anything about it."

"Governor Smith's religion is not or should not be an issue. He has shown by a long and remarkably progressive and constructive record that he is entirely without religious bias, and that he is without sectarianism."

"We have heard a great deal about moral issues involved in the presidential campaign, and there is a moral issue involved. That issue is whether government is to remain on the auction block."

A special meeting of city council will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to pass on the proposal to institute a bond issue of $1,000,000 for a psychopathic ward and other needed improvements at Grady hospital. The meeting was called by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale at the request of 22 members of council, who signed a petition for the session. Councilman Harry Tock, who circulated the petition, stated that every man he approached signed the petition.

According to proposed plans, the bond issue will be voted on by the people in the general municipal election of December 5, and will put the city to no extra expense, as the election is already set.

A meeting was held at noon by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce headed by John M. Shanton, Jr., for the purpose of sponsoring the establishment of a hospital for care and treatment of mentally and physically defective children in Fulton county. The committee from the Junior chamber is expected to set a date later in the week for the conference at which psychiatrists, club leaders, city and county and Junior Chamber of Commerce officials are expected to work out plans for joint aid in the drive for the child's guidance clinic.

Examples of the newest things in shirts is the subject of this narrative.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY OF TENTH DISTRICT TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Millidgeville, Ga., October 29.—(Special.)—Baldwin county democrats will gather Tuesday night at an old-fashioned campaign rally at the Millidgeville courthouse. Judge John A. Pottle, prominent lawyer, who has been active in the present campaign on speaking engagements.

The meeting will be presided over by Dr. Edward A. Tizner, president of Baldwin County A. I. Smith club, which was the first A. I. Smith club organized in the United States. Delegations from surrounding counties are expected.

This is one of a series of campaign rallies being staged in the tenth district by District Chairman Erwin Sibley, of Millidgeville. Colonel Sibley, as district chairman, predicts the overwhelming election of Smith in all counties of the tenth district.

A meeting is expected to be recommended at a meeting of the Fulton county commissioners Wednesday afternoon. It was learned Monday. The committee to present the matter before Fulton commissioners will be headed by Jere A. Wells, Fulton county school superintendent.

SEABORN WRIGHT

Writes An Open Letter
TO OUR CONGRESSMEN
AND SENATORS!

Each one of you have justified your support of Governor Smith upon a single proposition—that as President—regardless of his personal views upon the 18th amendment or the Volstead Act, he could NOT REPEAL OR MODIFY THEM.

For months past, in a thousand speeches—you have told the people that you bitterly oppose the views of Governor Smith, and that as Senators and Congressmen you would oppose any effort of his to modify or repeal our Prohibition laws.

Thousands of good men and women in Georgia, who would suffer martyrdom before voting for the repeal of these laws, are following you in this plea, for the sake of Party regularity.

Gentlemen, you cannot afford to deceive yourselves or the people of Georgia longer.

Your Tammany Candidate for President in his speech at Philadelphia to ten thousand rotten-wet Republicans declared if Congress failed to follow him in his modification of the Volstead Act and the amendment of the 18th Amendment—he would go over their heads straight to the people, and elect a Congress that would repeal them.

Your Candidate for President slaps you in the face.

He gives the lie to what you have told our Georgia people. He boasts that he has gone before with his Tammany gang over the heads of Legislators in New York and trailed them into line, as he will you.

Those of you who listened in, heard the yells of uncounted thousands of rotten wet Republicans scream their approval to this statement. These men were not Democrats. You heard the yells of the same wet Republican gang in Boston—in New Jersey—in Milwaukee—in Chicago. These mobs were not Democrats.

You cannot afford, as Southern men, to longer persuade our people to link hands with these unspeakable mobs, who hate the high things which are sacred to us—who sneer at our civilization.

Oh, for a single man among you—who is brave enough even now to spurn the threat of this Tammany Politician and tell our people—as did the great Carolina Senator, "It is a damnable thing to say that a man's duty to his party is above his duty to his soul."

You men, whom the people have honored with high office, are not fools. Most of you are advanced in years. You can but remember when the saloonkeeper was our master in Georgia. When it took two-thirds of our cotton crop to pay the Western brewer and Eastern distiller for liquor. When our morning papers flashed to us the news of some Southern woman assaulted by black, drunken brutes—and our evening papers followed it with a negro burnt at the stake.

You do not want to bring these things back to Georgia, and yet this Tammany Politician tells a wet Republican Philadelphia mob of whites and negroes that if you Senators and Congressmen refuse to do his bidding he will go over your heads to the people and whip you into line. Are you Southern men going to stand this last threat?

This Tammany gang did everything but slap your jaws in the New York Convention of '24—they did everything but kick you at Houston—you came home whipped and whining.

How much longer are you going to fondle the hand that slaps you or lick the foot that kicks you?

I am an old man, my years are three score and ten—for months I have had sickness in my home; except for these things I would have been in this fight by the side of my son and my gallant old friend, Hooper Alexander.

Just a word in conclusion—if you politicians will turn to the farewell address of George Washington and read the solemn warnings he gives his countrymen against blind partisanship—the curse which more than all else has destroyed the great governments of the past, it may enlighten you—if any vision remains in your eyes.

Partisanship when it clashes with public decency and cleanliness is our unspeakable curse.

To attempt to line up the great people of the South with the black criminal swarms in our cities, North, East and West, in the name of party loyalty, is not only a curse, but an unspeakable shame.

BORAH ASKS SMITH TO CLARIFY DRY ISSUE

Charleston, W. Va., October 29.—(AP)—Senator William E. "It is all so wonderful, I can hardly believe my eyes. When I think how badly you used to feel—didn't want anything to eat—perhaps sometimes a little grumpy and miserable, and just driving yourself by main force, I almost shudder. I know it worried you, too. You seemed to feel as though you were slipping. Then one day you brought home a bottle of S.S.S. and told me you were going to give it a trial. That was only a few weeks ago. Today you look like a new person. Your appetite is keen, your flesh is firm, and your whole being seems to radiate happiness and I am happy too, because you are well and strong again."

Loss of appetite only a symptom. It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of apppetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains. Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

Arthur Doone, 21, and Harold Marter, 20, who acted as chauffeurs for the trio, were sentenced to 1 to 34 years' imprisonment on a manslaughter charge.

Oglethorpe Explains Status Of Boys Indicted for Killings

Neither a Student at Time of Crimes, Registrar Says

Oglethorpe matriculation cards for Richard Gray Gallogly and George Rutherford Marsh, shown above, indicate the youth's status at the school at the time the holdups, for which they have been indicted, were perpetrated.

Denial that George R. Marsh, self-confessed "thrill slayer" of two Atlanta men, was a student at Oglethorpe university during the time that his confession embraces with regard to local holdups, was made in a certified statement made public Monday by Frank B. Anderson, registrar at the university.

"This is to certify," the statement says, "that Mr. George Marsh did not attend Oglethorpe university during the time that he was engaged in the affairs that he has confessed, the last of which occurred on that date. (This refers to the fatal wounding of Willard A. Smith, night manager of an Eighth street pharmacy, on the night of October 16, 1932).

"Mr. Richard Gallogly was registered at the university on October 10 and was suspended the following week and has not attended any classes since the registrar's statement adds, stating:

"There is no such person on the roll of the university as Mr. George Stewart, who is quoted in a local Atlanta paper as being an Oglethorpe student and as having stated that these two young men were typical Oglethorpe students."

The university also produced the matriculation cards of Marsh and Gallogly, the evidence that the former had not officially registered at the university prior to October 16 and Gallogly before October 10. The cards reveal, in the case of Marsh that his full name is George Rutherford Marsh; that his home address is Milwaukee, Wis., at "Hotel Astor," that he was born November 12, 1906 at Milwaukee, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh. He attended Peacock school, the card shows, and is a member of the Christian church. The card was dated October 16, 1932.

Gallogly's card revealed his full name as Richard Gray Gallogly; his home address at Graystone, Peachtree road; his birth date as September 24, 1905, at Atlanta; the son of James A. Gallogly, a broker. He attended Culver and Washington & Lee universities. His card shows no church affiliation. It was dated October 10, 1932.

COAL MINERS SUSPEND TO HONOR LATE CHIEF

158,000 Workers in Anthracite Fields Hail Memory of John Mitchell

Hazleton, Pa., October 29.—(AP)—The machinery of every colliery in the anthracite coal region was stifled today as 158,000 miners celebrated Mitchell day in honor of the late John Mitchell, former international president of the United Mine Workers of America.

With but a few exceptions, the parades and mass meetings of other years were missing from the small mining towns. These forms of commemorating the successful termination in 1900 of the first strike conducted by the united mine workers have generally been abandoned.

The organized union of miners came into being in the hard coal region after the labor riots of 1897. Into the strife-torn districts Mitchell sent his organizers to unite the workers. Late in the summer of 1900 he had the field so well organized that a convention of miners was called. Demands were addressed to operators for an increase in wages, for abolition of the "company stores," for lower prices on powder and for improved working conditions. These demands the operators ignored.

NEGRO SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR IN OFFICER'S DEATH

Augusta, Ga., October 29.—(AP)—Arthur Meyers, negro, tonight was sentenced to be executed December 7, for the murder of R. G. Gunn, special officer of the Georgia railroad, here in March, 1934. Meyers was pronounced immediately after reading of the verdict, returned by a Richmond county jury that had deliberated 25 minutes.

Meyers shot and killed the officer as the latter was taking him to a telephone to call police headquarters, after the negro had taken off a Georgia railroad freight train.

The negro fled and remained at large until captured in Chicago a few weeks ago.

CRISP ADDRESSES ELLAVILLE VOTERS ON PRESENT ISSUES

Ellaville, Ga., October 29.—(Special.)—Congressman Charles F. Crisp addressed the voters of Schley county at a democratic rally held at the court house here Saturday afternoon, speaking on the issues of the presidential campaign. For more than two hours he held the closest attention of his audience as he gave in detail facts relating to the political situation of the democratic and republican parties.

His remarks were clear and to the point. He was frequently applauded by the men and women voters of the town and county who filled to overflowing the courthouse auditorium.

The republican party he said, had never done anything for the south. If we expected help or relief from the government, we ought to put at its head a democrat. He paid a glowing tribute to Smith's record as governor of New York. He read an excerpt from one of the speeches of the late Thomas E. Watson, and stated that he was sure if Watson were living, he would support Smith for president.

Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama.

Senator Hefflin again attacked the Catholic church and Tammany hall, charging that the latter organization had never given aid to the south.

J. N. MacLean, Civitan Head, Is Here for Two Addresses

The rising generation of young men with the greater amounts of surplus business energy are seeking new fields of endeavor, and to this end are focusing their eyes upon the south, declared James Nelson MacLean, of New York, president of Civitan International, who arrived in Atlanta Monday to deliver addresses this afternoon and tonight before members of the Rotary and Civitan clubs.

Mr. MacLean will speak before the Rotary club at its weekly luncheon at the Capital City club at 12:30 o'clock today. In honor of their leader the Civitans will do away with the regular luncheon and will hold a dinner at 7 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Athletic club. Mr. MacLean will make an address and an unusually elaborate program of entertainment will be offered for the distinguished guest, the local members and their wives.

Better Transportation.—More rapid transportation, development of wireless, and institution of air mail service, bringing the south to the very door of the northern states, have been responsible for the southward trend of business, Mr. MacLean said.

Mr. MacLean will speak on "Obligations of the Individual to the Community" this afternoon at the Rotary meeting, and tonight at a Civitan club meeting at the Biltmore hotel. He will show the present need of the communities for the civic service clubs. Elected International president of Civitans last June in Detroit, Mr. MacLean at present is making a tour of the south which has swung him through Alabama, Tennessee and into Georgia. His business is that of corporation and commercial counselor, as he is connected with MacLean, Krouse and Grainger, of New York city.

He is particularly impressed with the tremendous forward strides of industrial life of the "Greater South" of today, Mr. MacLean said. The Civitan leader feels that the south is really taking on strength, power and the activities of northern industries and improving on all of the great enterprises of the north through careful study and research work.

Value of Clubs.—The medium of civic service clubs, the contacts among men, and the intermingling of clubs or interclub visitation, have brought the men of ability and efficiency—the true executives—of the northern enterprises to the realization of the potential possibilities of the greater industrial south as an outlet for their productions, resulting now in the establishment of branches throughout the south and the construction of large manufacturing plants also.

Mr. MacLean said that he has never seen such a transformation as has taken place in the south within the past four or five years, that there seems to have been a complete transfusion of new blood into the veins of the southern states, that they have begun to outstrip their northern neighbors. He predicted that within the next decade many of the larger cotton goods plants of the north will be permanently established in the south at the source of cotton supplies. Other large corporations naturally will be inclined to locate in this newer field of industry, he said.

$600,000 Loan

Made to State By Local Banks

Governor L. G. Hardman Monday concluded negotiations under which the state of Georgia borrows $600,000 until December 31 to pay salaries of school teachers. This sum brings the governor up to the limit of $3,500,000 borrowing power authorized by the legislature under the law.

The governor announced that the loan was extended by the Citizens and Southern bank, the Fulton National bank, the Atlanta and Northern National bank and the Fourth National bank. The rate of interest charged was 5 1/4 per cent, which is 1 per cent more interest than was charged in the loans negotiated last spring, according to the governor.

Prior to the loan negotiated Monday the state had borrowed $2,000,000, the rate of interest on that amount being 4 1/4 per cent.

This money is borrowed every year to pay the salaries of school teachers and anticipates the payment of taxes for the ensuing year.

MINISTER DEFENDS CASHIER FENDER OF INVERNESS, FLA.

Stating that certain press accounts of a recent bank failure in Inverness, Fla., had done injustice to I. O. Fender, cashier, Dr. A. W. Inverness minister, who is now pastor of the Colonial Hills Baptist tabernacle at East Point, has asked The Constitution to publish his statement on the matter.

The statement follows in part: "The bank closed on October 2 and Mr. Fender remained in Inverness for 15 days thereafter and offered any service he could render. Before leaving Inverness for this visit (to his home in Adel, Ga.), he summoned the city marshal, Frank Morris; his pastor, Dr. Hunt; Mr. Bennan, assistant cashier of the Citizens County bank; Dr. Dame, his physician, and others, and sent word to Sheriff Bowden, letting all know where he could be found, if he was needed. His family also did not hesitate to tell any inquirers where he had gone and where he could be found."

RESIDENCE CLOSED IN NEW ORLEANS BY DRY PADLOCK

New Orleans, October 29.—(AP)—For the second time in the history of padlock procedure in New Orleans a residence was closed today under the auspices of the federal dry law.

This was one of numerous penalties handed out today when the prohibition enforcement act was enforced on the 25 bootleggers who pleaded guilty and padlock proceedings were instituted against the same number of other defendants.

The dwelling padlocked, an alleged immoral house, was that of Mrs. A. J. Cochran, who also was sentenced to serve 90 days in prison for making home-brewed beer.

Judge Wayne G. Borah, presiding in federal court over the second general arraignment of prohibition cases resulting from the act, was appointed to the bench, made it clear that the court "as it is now constituted would make no distinction between different kinds of intoxicating liquors nor between the sexes of defendants."

A man and his wife were sentenced to prison terms on pleas of guilty to selling and possessing liquor.

'Back to Fireside' Movement Suggested as Crime Remedy

"Good Words," Prison Paper, Discusses Youthful Criminals

What was the cause of the crimes for which George Hersh, Oglethorpe university student, has confessed responsibility? Among the causes of crime listed in an interesting and informative treatise on "Crime: Its Cause and Remedy," in the current "Good Words," official publication of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, are: Liquor, automobiles, dance halls, immodest dress, certain moving pictures, questionable books, the "crime complex," environment, poverty, lack of education, etc.

Harsh, son of an old southern family, as his accomplice in the two slaying and many holdups which started Atlanta during the past month or so, himself laid the blame for his plight on himself.

Remedy for Crime.—Reestablishment of the home life of a generation ago in a "back to the paternal fireside" movement, in order to build up the morals of the home, the standard of thought and the integrity of purpose, is suggested in the prison paper as a remedy for crime.

In the article, the editor outlines his remedy for crime as follows: "Send the children to school on week days and take them to church and Sunday school on Sundays. Provide an interesting home for them to enjoy at nights. Keep ourselves free from all disintegrating influences. Back to religion. God, homelife and prayer."

Purity of Standards.—"Back to purity of standards of living, back to personal supervision of child by parents. Away from irreverence for all good things, away from house parties, petting parties, lascivious literature, false standards of life and all that leads to them. When we accomplish these things, it will be more difficult for crime to flourish."

The editor points out that "the unspeakable crimes of sexual perverts have rocked this nation with their repugnance. They are very often hidden in character and, quite frequently, are especially revolting. Yet many

What Men Owe to Their Wives

THE OBLIGATION that a man owes his wife is to make provision for her comfort and support as long as she lives, even though he should pass on.

This provision may be made from one's property, if he has as yet accumulated an adequate estate; or it may be supplied in whole or in part by life insurance.

The security for this obligation—the assurance that it will be met, and that your wife will inherit certainty and peace, instead of uncertainty, unaccustomed responsibilities, and trouble—this security to which your wife is entitled, is afforded through a will, setting forth your plans, and naming The Fourth National Bank executor and trustee to safeguard your estate and carry out your plans.

WARNS PARENTS and MOTORISTS

"MANY children solicit passing automobile drivers for rides, some of them standing in the street in order to hail drivers—and this practice not only increases the danger to children of accidents in the neighborhood of the schools, but also exposes them to the added danger of being picked up by an irresponsible, incompetent or criminally dangerous stranger. . . .

"We urge all parents . . . to exert every possible effort to reduce this hazard by proper training of children—and automobile drivers to assist in discouraging the practice by refusing to give rides."

Stribling Will Meet Big Sid Terris Here Tonight

Full Armory Expected To See Fight

Claimant to Heavyweight Title Hopes To Win by K. O. Route Quickly.

FIGHT PROGRAM
Young Stribling vs. Sid Terris, ten rounds.
Jeff Carroll, New Orleans, vs. Bill Jordan, High Point, N. C., ten rounds.
Pug Avera, Fort McPherson, vs. Blaine Davis, Mobile, six rounds.
Spencer Carter, Atlanta, vs. Grady Martin, Columbus, Ga., six rounds.
A. D. Abernathy, Forsyth, Ga., vs. Rudy Alverson, Atlanta, four rounds.
Battle royal.

William Lawrence Stribling II, ace in-the-hole in Tex Rickard's heavy-weight eliminations contest, will take his revised knockout style of fighting into an Atlanta ring tonight at the city auditorium against Sid Terris, North Carolina mountaineer.

Stribling has been matched with Terris in a 10-round go and says he expects to dispose of Big Sid just as he has flattered two-score opponents since the first of the year in his sensational challenge round for the title vacated by Gene Tunney.

But Big Sid is tightening his belt and his manager is saying little, Terris, who has been in the ring since he was a boy, expects to step in early, land a haymaker on the Stribling chin and take the crown of the pretender away from William Lawrence.

The prospect of staying the limit with Stribling and even of landing a knockout punch is alluring to the fox pair from Carolina.

First Bout in Years.
This is the first time Stribling has fought here since about two years ago. At that time he fought Leo Gates and won by a knockout. Stribling, oddly enough, has scored few knockouts in Atlanta. Of the 105 he has counted in his long career of 232 fights, he has knocked out only four men in an Atlanta ring. Three of them were in the old days when Stribling settled in the lower classes. He knocked out Kid Young, Tim O'Dowd and Al Nelson. Two years ago he kayoed Leo Gates in five rounds. His other fights have been decisions or draws. Pa Stribling, when pressed for a reason, said that Atlanta promoters always had made Stribling fight better men here. "We have rarely found an easy man signed for us in Atlanta," he said. "Eastern boxing critics rate Stribling the best of all the challengers and Georgia fans feel they are about to see their outstanding ring product go into a heavyweight championship bout at last. Stribling matured and heavier than ever has at last found the sleep punch he lacked in his early days."

Other Fights Good.

To the winner of the tournament will go a large silver trophy donated by Latham and Atkinson, local jewelry firm. Fighting for this trophy will be, among others, Will Gunn, brother of the renowned Watty; Berrien Moore, youthful city golf champion and one of Atlanta's best; young Charlie Yates, Josh Davis, Julius Hughes, Tom Shropshire and Dan Y. Conference Leaders Get Easier Games

Tech and Tennessee Not To Play Pennant Foes for Another Week.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Unless the unexpected happens—and it has on several occasions this season—the undefeated teams of the southern conference football panorama face slight prospects of setbacks this week.

Josh Cody's Clemson Tigers will be the only outfit of the three leaders to engage in intra-conference combat, the rugged boys from the region of Calhoun, S. C., thus hoping to hop a hurdle that will leave them in undisputed possession of top place for a week at least.

The powerful running Johnny Justus and mates will have a badly shaken University of Mississippi foe to combat at Oxford, Miss., with the prestige of an inviolate goal and a 32 to 0 victory of last week over South Carolina's Gamecocks to give them confidence. Ole Miss, on the other hand, has memories of a licking at Loyola's hands Saturday to forget.

Tech-Oglethorpe.
The Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech and Tennessee's vicious Volunteers will be going through what apparently are nothing more than good workouts, the Atlanta flats squad bumping into Oglethorpe in a home town game while Bob Neyland's sophomores waders will face Carson-Newman at Knoxville.

While these leaders, each holding three conference victories to their belts and ties are taking their antics fairly easy, a dozen other teams will be engaging in family scraps.

Foremost in interest in this array will be the Vanderbilt-Kentucky affair at Nashville, Florida and Sewanee at Jacksonville, Georgia and Auburn at Columbus, Ga., Virginia Poly and Maryland at Norfolk, Washington and Lee and Virginia at Charlottesville, and North Carolina and North Carolina State at Raleigh.

Undefeated Teams.
The Commodores, Wildcats, Alligators, Bulldogs and Gobblers of this number all are carrying undefeated records in the titular chase.

The way Armistead and McIlwaine raced through Virginia and the difficulty Kentucky had in disposing of the supposedly weak Centre Colonels Saturday bring Vanderbilt to the favorite's position. Although Florida had trouble disposing of the North Carolina State Wolfpack, Sewanee's showing was not good enough against Alabama to make them appear formidable Gator opponents.

Then, there is Auburn, at last free from the mental hazards, inferiority complexes or whatnots of a team that has lost and tied sixteen straight games. Despite the victory of the Plainsmen over Howard they will be facing a problem in handling Georgia's flying horsemen.

V. P. I.-Maryland.
Virginia Poly, led by Penke, will be shooting for its second conference victory against the Old Liners, yet to win a game in the Dixie marathon. In short, the conference race at mid-season has evolved to Florida, Clemson, Georgia Tech, Tennessee,

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

W. L. Is Ready.
WILLIAM LAWRENCE STRIBLING, JR., may not be the best fighter in the world and then again he may be, that question is soon to be decided in New York but he is certainly the best rope-skipping in the universe. Rope-skipping won't win championships but it will amuse a lot of folks around a gymnasium and that's just what W. L. did Monday afternoon at the Walton gym when he went three rounds with the string.

That was about all W. L. could do Monday afternoon because all the lads who offered to box with him failed to make an appearance at the last moment. After watching Strib work on the big bag and do more tricks with the rope than Blackstone can do with a deck of cards we found reason to blame the boys who failed to show up.

There have been bigger fighters than William Lawrence and there have been heavier ones but never was one in better condition than Strib is for this fight. While he was skipping the rope Strib looked over the heads of the crowded bystanders. Not being capable of mind reading we can't be sure but it seemed probable that Strib was looking a long way from the scene. He was looking many months ahead to the time when he will be champion of the world and will do his rope-skipping in a million-dollar ring at a million-dollar country club before an audience of millions.

One thing is certain. Strib is keeping in fine shape. He not only goes through his indoor training seriously but every morning he gets out of bed and walks anywhere from three to five or six miles before breakfast just for fun. Walking from here to Bukhead wouldn't seem like fun to most of us but William Lawrence Stribling is looking at a million-dollar championship.

In some ways Strib is still a kid. In some ways he will always be one. While shadow boxing he likes to feint around the ring until he gets close to a spectator then snap a sharp left or right to within a scant inch of that spectator's nose just to see him dodge. Most of the spectators do that thing, too.

He also likes to fly. Tex Rickard asked Pa Stribling to keep the boy from "flying all over the universe" but contrary to reports, there is no contract between the promoter and the Striblings. Monday Strib went to Macon and took his little ship into the air for an hour or so just for fun. The fighter will continue to fly his ship from time to time as he wishes even though Mr. Rickard has frowned upon this business of air-clowning.

There were those at the gymnasium Monday afternoon who looked at Big Sid Terris and wondered how anybody Strib's size could cut down such a mammoth. Big Sid weighs around 210 pounds and he is about six feet and four inches in height. He is in tip-top shape for the fight and he has the youth to go with his strength.

William Lawrence didn't seem to be worried, however, about the outcome of the fight and truly, there seems to be little doubt of the outcome. There seemed to be little doubt of the outcome of the Clemson-South Carolina game last Thursday but there proved to be considerable doubt.

Regardless of that question there is no doubt that the city auditorium will find itself rather filled tonight when the future world champion of the heavyweights fights his fight with Big Sid Terris, the Tarheel Terror.

The tickets are going rapidly and a huge delegation from Macon will see their favorite son in action. At least a dozen of them will come to Atlanta in the big tri-motored plane now in use down there for commercial flying.

A New Announcer.

If there is anything at all in heredity there is a very lusty-junged infant just two days old out at Wesley Memorial hospital. Probably there are a lot of these but the "lustiest" should be the new son of Fat Elrod, veteran announcer.

The new son, who is named William Campbell Elrod, weighed seven pounds and seven ounces when he was born. He has a long way to go from those two naturals to the present size of his amiable father. Mrs. Elrod is doing well and so is little Billy.

The SPORTLIGHT

FOOTBALL'S LEADING THRILL.

I'm not the football fan I was;
I get no passes to the games,
But I read all the line-ups 'cause
I'm fascinated by the names.

There's Peter Pund at Georgia Tech,
And out at Minnesota U.
They've Ukkelberg and Pulkrabeck,
Kakela and Nagurski, too.

The Cornsweet brothers play at Brown;
There's Cornsweat up at Dartmouth;
Beans, the Navy end, and down in Indiana, Uwhart.

I'd keep this up throughout the fall,
But Rice won't even pay two bits,
So I will close with what I call
The most peculiar name of all,
The Fordham full—Pieculiewicz.

RING LARDNER.

As for football names, Mr. Lardner must still recall the day when Starbuck played fullback for Cornell. This still holds the record, although at one time Cragwall, Bull and Bullock played in the line at Vanderbilt. For that matter, Yale's most slashing, hammering, battering, catapulting smash 'em back was named Coy.

Football Luck.
Luck in football, especially when it hangs on a close decision, is tremendous. For there are any number of plays in football that might be called either way, being of the 50-50 variety. Stanford supporters still feel certain they beat Notre Dame at Chicago last fall, and numerous football coaches on the side lines agree with this decision. Syracuse feels the same way about the Nebraska game, where another safety was involved.

Any number of forward pass plays are about halfway between direct interference and attempts to get the ball. And some of these are decisive. The rocky side of football as a game comes from the tremendous burden placed upon officials.

Concerning Names Again.

And still in vain each page I scan,
For "Pucklewartz to Oosterbaan."
When they were stars at Michigan
And passed and kicked, or bucked and ran.

"What is the longest putt on record?" asks L. P. It is usually the one your opponent holes, the lucky stiff.

Misleading Statistics.
Records that show how many touchdowns a backfield man has made or how much ground he has gained are even worse than useless. They mean nothing whatsoever, since no backfield set ever plays against the same opposition. In addition to this, such records, especially those regarding touchdowns, have done a lot of harm.

Jacket Squad Renews Grind After Victory

Oglethorpe Next Opposition for Tech; Long Practice Session Carded.

BY HERB CLARK.

Monday afternoon found Georgia Tech's Yellow Jacket grid squad back at the old grind on Grant field, weary but happy after that first-half victory over the Tarheels. And it was truly a grind.

The squad spent most of its time by splitting into sections by positions, with each bunch catching some real punishment. Coach Fincher's outfit came in for the biggest part of the work, charging from snap until their legs could barely move.

The air route, both the offensive and defensive branches, occupied the attention of the backs and ends for a time, after which the centers worked with the backs in an effort to brush up the passing faults which have been responsible for most of the fumbles in recent games.

The kickoff and its return was a subject that gathered the squad into teams, which worked together on this phase and at signal drill until Alex

Trophies are to be awarded winners and runner-up in the championship flight and also winners in other flights. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

Due to delays in playing of matches in both the championship and fourth flights, winners will not be known until the meeting tonight. It was announced.

Gators Return To Day Practice

Gainesville, October 25.—(AP)—Night football practice, introduced last week at the University of Florida, is a thing of the past for the "fighting Gators," at least for this season.

Coach Charles W. Bachman, witnessing a flock of geese flying southward this afternoon, feels that his squad will not be bothered by the heat anymore this fall, and has ordered regular afternoon practices in place of the night drills.

The "Gators" rested today after their hard battle with North Carolina State last Saturday.

Georgia Gets Set For Five Foes in South

Consecutive Conference Games Will Give Bulldogs Busy Time.

BY BOB SHERRILL.

Athens, Ga., October 25.—Georgia's Bulldogs today began preparations for five straight conference games and the hardest part of their schedule.

With only one conference foe disposed of, Coach Mehre has begun to train his eyes toward Columbus, Savannah, Birmingham and Atlanta not to mention another home game with the L. S. U. Tigers.

Early predictions came true Saturday when the Georgians had to score three touchdowns to overcome the Green Wave from New Orleans and then nobody knew that Georgia was going to win until the timekeeper's whistle sent a mad Red and Black crowd into a pandemonium of joy at their first interconference victory.

Satisfied that his ball carriers will compare with those of any of his foes, Coach Mehre will no doubt spend a large portion of his time in training the defense to stop such demons as blond Billy Barker, who gave Saturday's fans more thrills than a show dog could jump over. The Georgia

Miss Gunby's Debut To Assemble Fashionable House Party Guests

The return of Miss Rosalie Howell Gunby from New York city, where she has resided for several years, to spend her debutante year in Atlanta, is indeed a compliment to the city in which her mother, Mrs. Edward R. Gunby, passed her girlhood, and this decision adds quite a note of interest to the charming group of formal presentation to society at a reception and ball, at which Mrs. Gunby entertains Friday evening, November 9, at the Piedmont Driving club. This brilliant social event will assemble a limited number of close friends of Mrs. Gunby in the married set, with belles and beaux of the unmarried set of society making up the larger part of the exclusive list. Preceding the ball, Miss Gunby will be hostess at a house party at the Biltmore, the fashionable guests arriving here Thursday, November 8, including the following: Mrs. J. C. H. Rosemary Hall, in Greenwich, Conn., Misses Joan Clarke, of Neenah, Wis., and Virginia Day, of Greenwich, Conn., and New York, and Misses Rebecca Turner and Cynthia Conway, of New York, who were her roommates at the fashionable Spence school in New York city, where Miss Gunby finished her education. Other members of the house party number Miss Adelaide Mahoney, of Tampa, Fla., the first playmate of the lovely debutante when she made her home in that Florida city as a little girl; Misses Frances Hyde, of New York and East Hampton, and Idolene Watts, of New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watts, formerly of Baltimore, the latter having been Miss Idolene Austell, of Baltimore, who is a niece of Mrs. Albert E. She has been a resident of the city since her marriage to Miss Elizabeth Gardner, of this city. She has had every cultural advantage of education and travel, having won several honors at Rosemary Hall and Spencer school, from which she was graduated last June. Accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Gunby and sister, Miss Gardner Gunby, she has spent every summer in Europe. She is a namesake of Miss Rosalie Howell, her mother's beloved first cousin, who but lately returned from Europe, and makes her home on Governor's island. On her maternal side she belongs to one of the leading and most aristocratic families in Georgia, which have been for generations connected with its civic, cultural and social development.

Since Miss Gunby's arrival in Atlanta the first of October she has been the central figure at a series of social gatherings, and many more parties are being planned to make her debutante season long remembered and filled to overflowing with happy events.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint bottle costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe cough, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

URGES ADVERTISERS TO QUIT GUESSING 2,500 G. O. P. SPEECHES MADE SINCE OCTOBER 1

Expert Advocates Big Advertisers Check Up on Results.

Atlantic City, N. J., October 26.—(AP)—S. H. Gellerup, an executive of the Frank Seaman Advertising agency of New York city, is an address prepared for delivery today at the convention of the Association of National Advertisers, allocated inauguration of a bureau for testing the effectiveness of advertisements, supported by contributions amounting to 1 per cent of the advertising appropriations of the leading national advertisers of the country.

"This association has done a great deal for you in other directions," Mr. Gellerup said. "But research into these questions is financially beyond it. Isn't the time ripe to get such an activity started?" He pointed out that the 21 leading users of magazines last year spent that medium alone, more than $37,000,000.

"Making his plea for substituting 'testing for guessing,'" Mr. Gellerup declared:

"Perhaps you may feel that I go a little too far when I condemn the present practice as guessing. Yet, that is all it really is. Intelligent guessing sometimes, but it is guessing nevertheless."

Mr. Gellerup mentioned sales, inquiries and consumers' opinions as three criterions in making tests. Quantitative tests, that is, efforts to determine how much interest a series of several series of ads will produce, will require the sales test. Tests to establish the relative merits of publications can be carried out on an inquiry basis. So can tests to determine the most profitable size of space or the best position. Tests of copy are effectively executed by means of consumers' opinions.

Mr. Newton will leave his desk tonight to conduct a speaking tour of his own state of Minnesota.

"56 Years in Atlanta"

Mrs. Daniel O'Day Honored By Mrs. Healey at Informal Tea

Atlanta society in its smartest attire welcomed Mrs. Daniel O'Day, of Rye, N. Y., at Mrs. William Healey's informal tea Sunday afternoon, given at her home on Andrews drive, offering a social touch to the visit of this distinguished woman, whose friendship Mrs. Healey has enjoyed for several years. Miss Callie Orme poured tea from a silver tray placed at one end of the exquisitely decorated table, overlaid with a Venetian lace cloth combining motifs of priceless lace and embroidery brought from Europe by the charming hostess in one of her many travels abroad. Perpet roses formed the central decoration.

Mrs. Healey's invitation provided an intimate view of the intellectual and oratorically-gifted Mrs. O'Day, who came to Atlanta for the express purpose of presenting a fair-minded and convincing address made in behalf of the democratic presidential nominee, Governor Alfred E. Smith. Here is a first-hand knowledge, as she has known the standard bearer of the democratic party for years and years, having often been a guest of Governor and Mrs. Smith at the executive mansion in Albany, N. Y. Following the presentation of this nationally-known figure, Mrs. O'Day, originally from Savannah, Robert F. Maddox presented her to the assembly with appropriate introductory remarks, incorporating the fact that he was a student at the University of Georgia in Athens, while Mrs. O'Day, or Miss Carrie Love Goodwin, was enrolled at Lucy Cobb Institute.

Political Flair.
Her passion for politics came about in a very interesting way. Her home, "Sunbright," on Sunset lane, is in Rye, N. Y., and when she went there to reside democrats were to be found few and far between in this particular community. She had one friend belonging to the party, a woman much older than herself, a good speaker much in demand for addresses in various parts of Westchester county. This friend did not own an automobile, and it was at this juncture that Mrs. O'Day stepped into the picture with the offer that "if you will furnish the car, I will furnish the car." Thus it was that in transporting her enthusiastic friend, so that she might speak for democracy's cause, Mrs. O'Day became vitally interested in politics and began to make a speech here and there, each one preparing her for the great part she has played in the present presidential campaign. Graciousness, poise, magnetic personality are among her pleasing attributes. She is a very attractive, extemporaneous speaker, possessing political tact and acumen. Her ingratiating sweetness of manner is an inheritance from her Georgia forebears, and counts among her assets that rare ornament, common sense.

Mrs. O'Day's willingness to visit Atlanta in the service of her party showed unselfish determination to stand wholeheartedly behind the candidate, and she is heart and soul for Governor Smith, believing that his democratic represents the best political tradition of the country. Being a student of Mrs. Healey's hospitality and having the delightful privilege of hearing Mrs. O'Day's informal talk are prepared to set forth in an enlightened and confident manner the splendid qualifications and uplifting deeds of the democratic nominee. She was followed by Mrs. John K. Ottley, who followed with a brilliant and convincing address on the democratic election.

The honor guest wore a handsome two-piece gown of black velvet, with black, embroidered in a conventional design of white flowers, and worn with close-fitting black felt hat, her ornaments being a string of pearls. Mrs. Healey was a regal figure, gowned in blue chiffon velvet, introducing a pointed yoke of cream-colored thread lace.

OHIO PUBLISHER'S HOME WRECKED BY BOMB

Mansfield, Ohio, October 29.—(AP)—The home of R. C. Hoyles, Mansfield publisher, was bombed early today. The front porch was torn away, the front windows blown out, and the interior of the home badly damaged, but no one was injured.

Besides the Mansfield News-Herald, and the Defiance Telegraph. Mr. Hoyles, his wife, their two small children and a maid servant were sleeping when the explosion occurred, but escaped harm.

No motive was advanced for the attack. Police began an immediate investigation. Although police said the bomb evidently was a small one, it ruined the front of the beautiful Hoyles home. It had been placed in the doorway and made a hole almost five feet deep.

Furniture in the front rooms of the house was smashed.

Hoyles and his family escaped injury because they were in the rear of the house.

The publisher said he believed the bomb had not been planted with intent to injure him, but rather in an effort to frighten him. He assigned no reason for the affair. The only other police had was a report from a neighbor that she saw an automobile driving away from the Hoyles home about the time of the blast.

Why Fat Returns
when folks stop starving

One may reduce by starving, but the fat returns when one stops. The reason is this: Most people who are over-fat have an under-active thyroid. That is the gland which largely controls nutrition. Until this deficiency is corrected, much food goes to fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, aim at this condition. They use to correct it the chief factor used in Marmola.

over-fat have used millions of boxes. Users told others the results—the loss in weight, the gain in health and vigor. Thus the use has grown to enormous proportions. That is one great reason why excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was. Slender figures are the vogue. Beauty, health and vitality demand that excess fat be banished. To lose 20 pounds means to drop ten years. Try it in this easy, pleasant way. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. Go get Marmola. Watch results for a little while and you will be delighted. Don't delay.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Diamonds Glitter As Opera Season Opens in Gotham

New York, October 29.—(AP)—The rich, the newly rich and the nearly rich brushed elbows tonight with the never-will-be-rich as New York's social and musical season made its jeweled debut at the opening of the Metropolitan opera's forty-fourth year.

Silk hats, spangled evening gowns, diamond studs, and necklaces, sparkled in the corridors, aisles and chairs of the famous old Broadway playhouse where society gathered to hear Gatti-Casazza's stars sing Italo Montemezzi's "L'Amore Dei Tre Re"—the "Love of the Three Kings."

In the background of the diamond-horshoe's brilliance and the orchestra's pit's radiance were the business suits and frocks and the ornaments of modest value worn by the staidest men and women who had waited in line for hours to buy standing room so that they could applaud the return to the footlights of old favorites, especially Rosa Ponselle and Giovanni Martinelli in the leading roles, and Tullio Serafin, the maestro.

Society came late, as society always does, rolling up to the doors of "The Met" in limousines and lingering in the corridors to chat before it took its place in the grand tier of the glitter boxes. "Opening night" is regarded by the box-holders primarily as a social event, whereas the family circle folk and the standees, who take their opera more seriously, keep it solely as a feast of music.

Some said that Mr. Gatti, who was opening the twenty-first year of his reign as general manager of the Metropolitan, had made a concession to his more lustrous customers tonight for "The Love of Three Kings" is a brief work, as operas go, and didn't start until 8:30, giving some leeway even to those who habitually miss the first act.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

CHATTERER ISN'T WORRIED.
BY THOMAS W. BURGESS.
Worry is with trouble fraught, And very seldom gets you aught. —Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

Unlike his cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, Chatterer the Red Squirrel was not worried by the failure of the beechnut crop and of the acorn crop. He was disappointed, for he likes beechnuts, but he was not worried. Chatterer's storehouse would not be empty, even though he could not find a single beechnut or a single acorn. When he was sure that it would require more work than they were worth to get some of the few beechnuts every one was looking for, Chatterer slipped away by himself. He went straight over to a certain pine tree.

"Beechnuts are all right," said Chatterer, "but if I can have plenty of pine seeds and spruce seeds some one else can have the nuts. It's a good thing that I like these seeds and know how to get them. They must be about ready now to be cut."

Chatterer ran up the tree and out on one of the upper branches where a number of cones hung. Those cones were still tightly closed. They were not yet ripe enough to open. This suited Chatterer. He cut off every one of the cones on that particular branch, and he chuckled as he watched them fall to the ground. Then he went to another branch and did the same thing. Not a single one of those cones opened, so not a seed was to be seen. Yank Yank the nutcracker watched Chatterer from a neighboring tree. Finally his curiosity got the better of him.

"Excuse me, Chatterer," said he, "but why don't you wait until those cones are ripe and open, so that the seeds will drop out?"

Chatterer stopped work long enough to look over at Yank Yank and, in his turn, asked a question: "Did you ever watch the seeds drop out of an open cone?"

Yank Yank nodded. "Of course I have," said he.

With this, Chatterer ran out on another branch and went to work on the cones on that. Those sharp teeth of his cut them off easily. Chatterer is a worker when he wants to work. No one can ever call him lazy. Looking across from the top of that pine tree he saw a fir tree with a heavy crop of small cones. "Aha!" said Chatterer to himself. "We'll have a little variety this winter. When I have cut

16-YEAR-OLD BRIDE HELD AS WITNESS IN FEDERAL COURT

Baltimore, October 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Clark Bernstein, 16, bride of Ellis Bernstein, of Washington, was held in $2,500 bail by United States Commissioner Sipple here today in connection with her testimony at the trial of her husband for violation of the Mann act.

At the husband's trial yesterday, it was charged that Bernstein and William E. Lizer, of Baltimore, had brought the young girl here from Lebanon, Pa., for immoral purposes. She was arrested in company with Lizer here last January. Before the federal grand jury she is alleged to have testified that Lizer and Bernstein brought her here in an automobile.

At the trial yesterday she said that she did not remember who brought her to Baltimore. She also testified that she later married Bernstein.

WORLD'S LARGEST TELESCOPE TO BE ON TOP OF MOUNT

Pasadena, Calif., October 29.—(AP)—The largest telescope in the world, planned to surpass by five or ten times the power of the great Hooker telescope on Mount Wilson, is to be erected on a California mountain top not yet designated.

The California Institute of Technology has announced that funds have been made available for its construction and that work on the 200-inch reflector with which it will be equipped will begin within a few months.

The telescope and a laboratory are a gift to the institute from the international education board, with headquarters at New York. The amount of money involved was not disclosed, but it would of necessity be larger than that required to build the Hooker telescope, which cost $800,000.

A Corset A Corselette or A Girdle

May be what you need for smart effect.

VANDERBILT PLANS WORLD TRIP TO GET RARE SEA SPECIES
Miami Beach, Fla., October 29.—(AP)—W. K. Vanderbilt, New York financier and sportsman, who arrived here this morning on his palatial yacht Ara, announced late today that he will leave here November 16 for a scientific expedition around the world for the purpose of obtaining rare and unknown specimens of sea life. THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS: Patricia Shane is being entertained in one of New York's night clubs by Fanning Edgier. She is annoyed by the insulting stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. At the table with the hawk are a blonde, coarse-looking woman and a slight young man who appears to be drunk. The hawk calls young Edgier away from his table on pretext, and as soon as he goes the hawk approaches Patricia and tries to engage her in conversation. He is interrupted by a good looking young chap, who orders him back to his place. The newcomer introduces himself as Jimmy Kirkin. Patricia tells Kirkin that she thinks the hawk-nosed person had asked the head waiter to get rid of her escort. A fight ensues and Fanning Edgier falls in line. The hawk introduces Kirkin to him and then asks him to take her home. A few minutes later, as Kirkin leaves the place with his companion, he is followed by a man on the street who appears to be drunk. The hawk-nosed person looks at Patricia Stoman, after taking the blonde woman home, makes for his secret hideout, and there goes over a number of old, saved paper clippings dealing with the disappearance of the 14-year-old daughter of Colonel La Verry, who offers a million dollars reward for the safe return of the girl. Stoman glances at the pictures of the girl, he saw in the cabinet with Fanning Edgier, except for a red birthmark shown in the picture.

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

COLLAPSE.
The doctor drew himself erect. "Undo the boxes," he commanded Jake with a certain dignity. "Louie left me a chisel," said Jake, and set himself to using it. The cover of the first square box squealed and groaned, but it came off. "Say," whispered Jake, looking with interest at the doctor's face, "she's passed out, Doc. He turned wide-eyed. "Look here, Doc. Say, she's cold as ice."

"Rip open that other box," snapped Dr. Lester Leopold Lann. "Then get out of the way, you damned fool, and let me work. What does Bart think he's got me into—murder? Lift her out, you animal. Lay her on the floor—that's right, gently—no, flat on the floor. Now get out of the way."

He bent down, whipped a stethoscope from his coat pocket, clapped the main tube against Patricia's ribs. "Let the other one go," he yelled over his shoulder. "Run up to the bathroom and get me a glass of water. Run—do you hear me?"

"She's just about alive, Bart," the bald-headed, sharp-eyed man stated simply. "You, with your boast that you never miss a trick! Laced her up so her circulation was practically stopped. That's enough in itself. But then you bent her into that little box—wrist muscles all twisted, lungs bent in so they could catch about an eighth of a seventh of their normal capacity. Human beings have to breathe. Ever stop to think of that? If the rest of your work is as intelligent as this—"

"I had holes bored in the box, didn't I?"

"Yes, but did you have holes bored in her lungs? They have to expand and contract. You gave them no chance."

"It wasn't me, Doc. It was Louie and Jake and Evanson."

"You're passing the buck to them?"

"No, I'm not passing any buck, I'm sorry. Can we go ahead with her?"

"Maybe, maybe not. As a matter of fact, yes. Send Jake out to the nearest restaurant and bring her in some hot soup and some hot coffee. Bread and butter, too. But lots of soup. Do you realize, Bart, that she has to undergo the operation of what amounts to a surgical operation on top of this—in addition to the hypnosis—and then be all right tomorrow?"

"Surgical operation?" queried the hawk-nosed man dully.

Said the other: "Were you ever tattooed, Bart? No? Well, for your information then, it's needles. Hundreds, maybe thousands of pricks. The Lord didn't put our nerves inside. For a good reason he put 'em right under the skin." He looked at his companion coldly. "Want me to give you one good jab with a needle, Bart?"

"No," shouted the other, shrinking involuntarily.

"Well then, use your brain. Get this girl some soup—soup or beef stew, coffee, bread and butter, sugar and cream. Feed her right. Send Jake."

"What about the other one?" the hawk-nosed man asked.

The doctor shrugged. "Haven't had a chance to unbox him yet," he said.

The Atlanta Constitution is making every possible effort to verify the various subscriptions submitted through investigation and asks the cooperation of all contestants as well as that of the new subscribers to the end that an official report on every subscription submitted may be available to the contestant by midnight, Nov. 7th.

The Constitution verifiers are checking up on all subscriptions submitted and the fact that verifiers have been unable to see some of the prospective subscribers might account for the fact that as yet you have failed to receive a report as to the acceptance or rejection of one or more of the subscriptions submitted by you. Every effort is being made to expedite the investigation of subscriptions.

Three Wonderful Orthophonic Victor Victrolas

Wonderful as are the automobiles and all the rest of the 31 prizes, no prizes in the list will bring more sheer happiness into the home than the three magnificent ORTHOPHONIC VICTOR VICTROLAS. There is really nothing that can compare with the joy of orthophonic music except the singing or playing of the artists themselves. This is literally true and is basically why The Atlanta Constitution selected THREE Orthophonic Victrolas as awards.

Kreisler—Elman—Heifetz. A violin, quivering with a thousand varied emotions that transcend words. Swiftly your surroundings vanish. You see a black Hungarian forest. YOU ARE AT THE CONCERT—IN YOUR OWN HOME. So realistic, so life-like, is reproduction through the Orthophonic Victrola that the artist seems to stand there before you. Whatever the season, this versatile instrument brings you and your friends the best of the world's music by the world's greatest artists—and as many encores as you wish.

The mornings grow crisper. The forerunner of a sharp wintry tang is in the air. And waiting at Willner's (the symbol of safety in furs) is a gorgeous all-Northern Seal Coat; self-trimmed. Made of selected New Zealand Buckskins---a warm, luxurious garment ready to bundle a happy Movietest winner---all the happier for the bundling. The Real Story of Steinite

In the new Steinite Electric AC Radio you are offered the finest achievement in radio's history—the highest point of beauty, simplicity and convenience which has yet been attained. The beautifully finished cabinet of the Steinite holds within it a masterpiece of radio engineering—a precision instrument of scientifically correct design, built carefully of the finest materials so that it may give you care-free, perfect radio enjoyment for many years.

There has never been a receiver more simple in its operation than the new Steinite. All controls—the single illuminated drum dial, the volume control, the antenna compensator and the switch, are grouped within the beautiful antique finished bronze escutcheon plate, placing the entire control of the set at the finger-tips of one hand.

The cabinet of the table model is made of Tanguile, the most beautiful of all Philippine woods. The consoles are made of American black walnut veneer, with burl walnut overlays. All models are finished in genuine Duco which enhances and preserves the original beauty of the fine woods.

When you visit your Steinite dealer, ask to look at the inside of the new Steinite Electric Radio. Your first glance will surprise and delight you—all interior parts are richly finished in gold!

Note the sturdy construction of the set—it is built like a battleship. The finer and more sensitive apparatus is completely protected with a cold drawn steel sub-panel.

Note the condenser assembly. Even the shaft that rotates the condenser plates are double the size required. We put in an extra large shaft to avoid any possibility of the precision plates of the variable condensers getting out of line. The cradle around the condensers, made of cold drawn steel, electrically welded, give the condensers added strength and protection. The condenser assembly is so strong that it could be tossed as far as you could throw it without serious damage.

The power pack which converts the house lighting current into smooth direct current, suitable for use in operating the set, is a romantic thing within itself. To the casual observer it appears to be nothing but a box of wax, but down underneath that wax you'll find miles and miles of wire as fine as hair, each little turn contributing its share to furnishing you radio entertainment of the very best. You'll find hundreds of feet of ribbon tin-foil, wound alternately with ribbons of paper of a special kind, which can be obtained in only one section of the world. The wax you see is merely a covering—a protection for this precision apparatus.

WHAT THESE FEATURES MEAN IN PERFORMANCE

The advanced engineering of the new Steinite has given it an unusual degree of selectivity and sensitivity, and a beautiful tone quality which will thrill you. Its ability to reach out for the far distant stations, and its wealth of power make it an outstanding radio achievement.

Steinite sets are licensed under the patents of The Radio Corporation of America, The General Electric Company, The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and The American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The vast research work of these organizations is open to Steinite engineers.

Yes—The Steinite Electric AC Radio is America's greatest radio value!
